

Found Tornado Items – Washington District Library

The Washington District Library is still in possession of some photos and paper records found shortly after the 2013 tornado. The items stored can be viewed through our website, www.washington.lib.il.us. From the homepage, scroll down to the link for the “Community Power Project.” If you don’t have a computer or need help, come to the library, and a staff member can assist you. The Washington District Library will continue to house these items until December 31, 2018. After that date, items will be donated or disposed of. If you are still missing items from the tornado, please view the link above. If you recognize something that belongs to you, please write down the item number, then call the Main Library at 309.444.2241 and ask for Lori.
